

Since 1977, Sojourn has been a sanctuary for women and children harmed by domestic violence, working to help them regain control of their lives. A 24-hour hotline, crisis & transitional shelters, children's program, community education programs, free legal clinic and full-time court advocacy, and support groups serve to break the cycle of violence in these families and to educate society about crimes against battered women and their children. Sojourn is a project of OPCC's (Ocean Park Community Center) network of shelters and services, a tax-exempt, non profit social services agency.
